A highlight of this year's Fall Festival was the inauguration of Bethel's tenth president, Dr. John E. Zehr.

Zehr came to Bethel from a position as head of the Department of Physiology and Biophysics at the University of Illinois. His previous teaching positions included work at the Indiana University Medical Center as a graduate assistant and at Jichi Medical School in Japan, as a visiting Professor of Pharmacology.

In addition to teaching, Zehr worked as a research associate at the Mayo Graduate School of Medicine in Rochester, Minn. and as a visiting scientist at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle. His research has been published extensively in medical journals and he has been awarded fellowships from the Public Health Service, the National Institutes of Health and Japan Society for Promotion of Science.

Zehr and his wife, Betty Birkey Zehr, have a family of four spread out throughout Indiana and Illinois.

The inaugural festivities began on Sunday, October 13, with a concert held in Mem Hall. Music was provided by a Bethel string quintet, the Newton Community Children's Choir, the Gospel Choir, a

Bethel brass quartet, and a mass choir consisting of area church choirs.

After the concert, Alvin I. Penner, Chairman of the Board and the Inauguration Committee presided over the ceremony. The Sinfonia performed the processional and the recessional. Dr. John Paul Lederach of Eastern Mennonite College gave the inaugural address.

The newly inaugurated Dr. Zehr and his wife Betty mingle with the crowd after his inauguration ceremony.

Dr. Zehr held the seal of the college as he was introduced to the audience.

Anything Goes:

Members of the winning relay team celebrate while those they defeated look on in disbelief. All that participated had a enjoyable time.

Kari Deckert and Ken Troyer test their relationship by competing in the three legged race together.

One of the relays called for pushing oranges across the grass.

Brad Guhr saves the water balloon by letting his body take the momentum of its impact.

Although Saturday is the main day of Fall Fest, entertainment and festivities abound a few days before and the Sunday after as well.

This year, the celebration kicked off on Thursday, October 10, with the "Taste of Newton" food fair downtown. Newton area groups held booths serving every kind of food you could imagine. Musical entertainment was provided by area groups.

The drama, which this year happened to be the musical

"Godspell," took place on Thursday, Friday, and Sunday. This year, BC students were culturally enlightened by more than the musical. The Cultural Events Series presented the Great American Indian Dancers in song, narration and dance.

A big highlight for BC students, however, is always the "Anything Goes" competition. Participants sign up in teams to run relays and play games that make you look stupid but are generally a lot of fun on the campus Green.

Fall Fest Booths:

Angela Lehman and Marike Janzen seem very happy to be helping out at the Amnesty International booth.

Tim Sailor and Wanda Dutcher oversee the sale of t-shirts at the Multicultural Organization booth.

Kay, the BC ewe, hung around as the mascot for KBCU's booth on the green. The station broadcast live throughout the day.

You have never seen a busier, more beautiful campus until you see Bethel's campus during Fall Fest. Saturday is the "big day" for Fall Fest, the one we all look forward to, when we can stroll around with our parents and look at all the booths and try to convince them to buy us something. You could have whatever you wanted to eat from New Year's Cookies to homemade Ice Cream. Besides the usual departmental exhibits, "Jubilee," this year's Fall Fest, had an antique auto show, a petting zoo, and buggy rides.

Other Saturday happenings included Kauffman Museum tours and exhibits, an Oriental Bazaar, and "Old-fashioned School Recess Games," sort of a junior Anything Goes, as well as sporting events, such as the homecoming football game. Musical entertainment, featuring Bethel, local, and touring entertainers, took place throughout the day on the stage on the Green.

Halloween:

Each year the spooks, goblins, M&M's, and Oreos come out at Bethel on October 31. Students dress up in the most creative costumes they can think of to attend the annual Halloween dance. The point is to have the best costume in a certain category and win a prize given out by SAB. Some of this year's categories and their winners included: Dave Kliewer (best mummy) and Eric Shenk (best cross-dresser). The best costume for a group was silverware and the best costume for a couple was M&M's.

Dave Kliewer stands as the best mummy while his adoring fans cheer him on.

Karin Kaufman, Cristina Kaufman and DeAnn Dick received first prize for their portrayals of silverware.

Lori Schmidt and Lynn Eichelberger won best couple as M&M's. Lynn is the one with nuts.

Christmas:

The joy and peace of the holiday season are celebrated each year by special BC traditions. The Lighting of the Green is a special night-time ceremony which brings students and faculty together. After a short worship service with Christmas carols and scripture readings, campus lights are turned off so the only visible light comes from the candles held by people encircling the Green, forming an "Advent wreath." The event is sponsored by Campus Ministries. Another Christmas tradition, Deutsche Weihnachten, is a popularly attended church service held at Bethel College Mennonite Church. The worship is entirely in German, from the sermon to the carols. Bethel German students provide music, scripture readings, and personal reflections, all "auf deutsch."

The Concet Choir and the Sinfonia provided musical entertainment at the Christmas banquet, held every year in conjunction with Winter Frolic.

Formals:

Winter Frolic is a chance for BC students to ditch the jeans, dress up, and celebrate in the proper formal style. A banquet is held in Mem Hall complete with musical entertainment and pretty decent food. This year, the BC Concert Choir performed the Christmas section of Handel's oratorio "Messiah." Afterwards, students kicked off their shoes at a dance in the Mantz Library lounge, complete with - yes - decorations!

Beth Yoder and Cindy Schasteen pose in front of the Christmas tree, all decked out in their Winter Frolic duds.

Eric Nachtigal and Jenny Ediger ham it up for the camera before Winter Frolic festivities begin.

Spring Fling is one of two chances during the school year for BC students to show everyone what they look like when they take longer than five minutes to get ready. After a festive banquet in Schultz Student Center, students dance the night away on Centennial Plaza, for one of the few outdoor dances of the year.

Interterm:

"I just can't describe it in words" is a usual response from a BC students asked to tell about their interterm study trip. And the truth is, this is what interterm is all about. Reading about the Holy Land or seeing reproductions of art in a book cannot possibly compare with touring biblical sites or standing directly in front of Seurat's "Afternoon at La Grande Jatte." Interterm, a 22-year tradition, is a month between the fall and spring semesters when students take only one course. They can focus on one subject and be free from commitments to other classes. Many students choose to travel during this time. This year's destinations included Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala, Eastern Europe, and Israel. Although many trips are international, there are trips within the United States as well. Interterm 1992 took students to Chicago to study art or urban life.

Sharon Fransen and Larissa Fast strain their neck and eyes in Costa Rica looking at a group of monkeys while a co-traveler has a better idea.

Jimery Stewart feels more cheerful after a meal at a deli in Chicago.

Anna Dick does not have the energy to stay awake as her group awaits the plane to take them home.

Students have the opportunity to see sights they would never see in Newton.

Earthday:

Students gather on the green to enjoy sunshine, live music, and conversation as a way of celebrating Earthday.

A nation-wide celebration of our planet and an attempt to raise awareness of the global concerns facing our society takes place on Earthday each year. Bethel students recognized Earthday with outdoor concerts and booths to heighten students' awareness. A sattelite downlink connected people to a national teleconference about the Earth Summit. KBCU broadcast live from the celebration and Ultimate fanatics played on the Green. (As if they needed an excuse.) Bethel people contribute to environmentalism all year around by providing recycling boxes, using recycled paper, phasing out styrofoam, encouraging people to bring their own plates and cups to cut down on trash, and even forming a special group, called the Environmental Action Club, to devote themselves to finding ways to fight the destruction of our planet.

Woodstock at Warkentin:

Steve Unruh, Ben Chappell, Don Duncan, and Tyler Sawatzky enjoy the applause after performing.

With the musical talent that abounds at Bethel, outdoor concerts with local (BC) favorites are a commonality. One such concert, held in the courtyard at the mods, closely resembles the famous Woodstock celebration of the sixties (sans drugs and orgies). Crowds gathered on blankets to hear such featured entertainers as the Gospel Choir, Ben and Carrie, Laura Cossey, and more.

Comedy Night:

Quality entertainment at a low price is the goal of BC's Student Activities Board. In addition to dances, movies and Fun Cycles, SAB strives to bring Bethel students variety. We Can Make You Laugh was a comedy act sponsored by SAB for the second year in a row. People who attended the act enjoyed non-alcoholic beverages served by faculty members while they silently hoped their names would not be called to bring them up on stage. Audience members whose names were called were mercilessly tormented by joke after joke and then awarded prizes, with only one stipula-

Doug Carpenter, Jim Blanton, Etric Sheck, and Mike Regier entertain the student body by dancing to a popular Village People song "YMCA".

The comedians tries hard to make Laurie Tolle laugh but to no success. Laurie earned $20 by not laughing.

A group of 3 comedians worked hard all evening to keep the student body laughing.

The SAB crew: Aaron Hull, Troy Fowler, Mike Hamiliton, Kevin Neufeld, Dave Prehiem, Venita Smith, Laurie Tolle, Lori Voth, Deidre Buller, Kurt Prater, Olivia Bartel, Cristin Dorsing, and Marla Gaeddert pose with the comedians.

Service Corps:

Service Corp volunteers pose outside a house they worked on together as a service project.

Volunteers worked during spare time to complete the stitching on a quilt that was eventually sold at the MCC sale. It has become an annual Service Corp project.

People who worked on the quilt proudly display their finished work to the photographer.

More Service Corp volunteers must have gotten the wrong idea while bagging trash out in the country.

Service Corps is a club that exemplifies what Bethel stands for. Members of this club participate in various service projects in the area throughout the year. Help is often encouraged from other students by sign-up sheets in the meal lines.

Work Day:

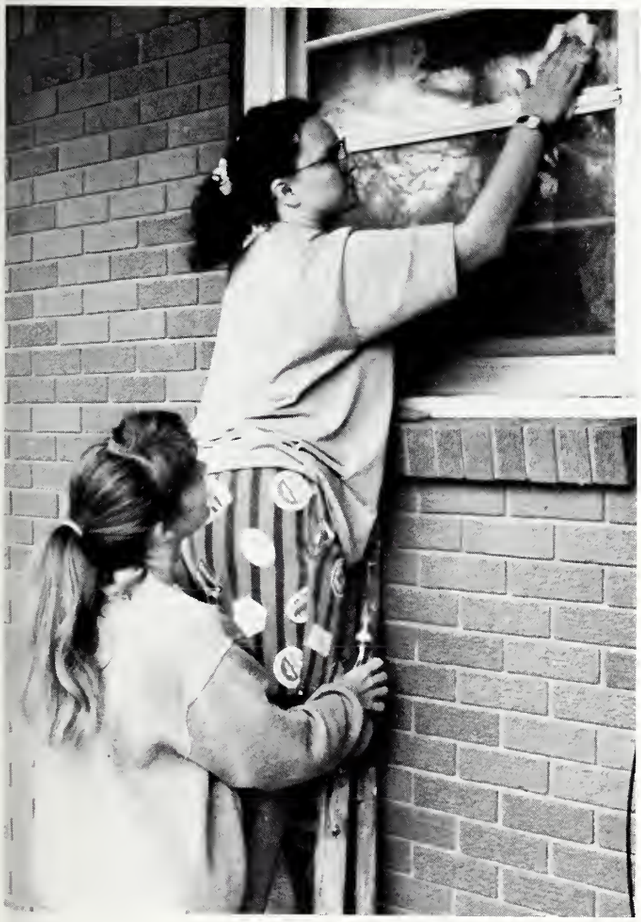
Workday annually draws over half of the student population out of their beds on a day off from class to do good for the community. Volunteers do yard work, cleaning, and other odd jobs for people in the Newton area. This year's Workday surpassed even the wildest expectations, with about 62% of the student body volunteering to work. The money participants earn goes to a project voted on by the student body. This year's profits are tentatively going to pay for ice machines.

Rachel Dirks spends part of her workday cleaning windows.

Doug Klassen and J.O. Schrag work together to build a new fence.

Deanne Flickinger works hard on a window while Sharon Franzen assists with the ladder.

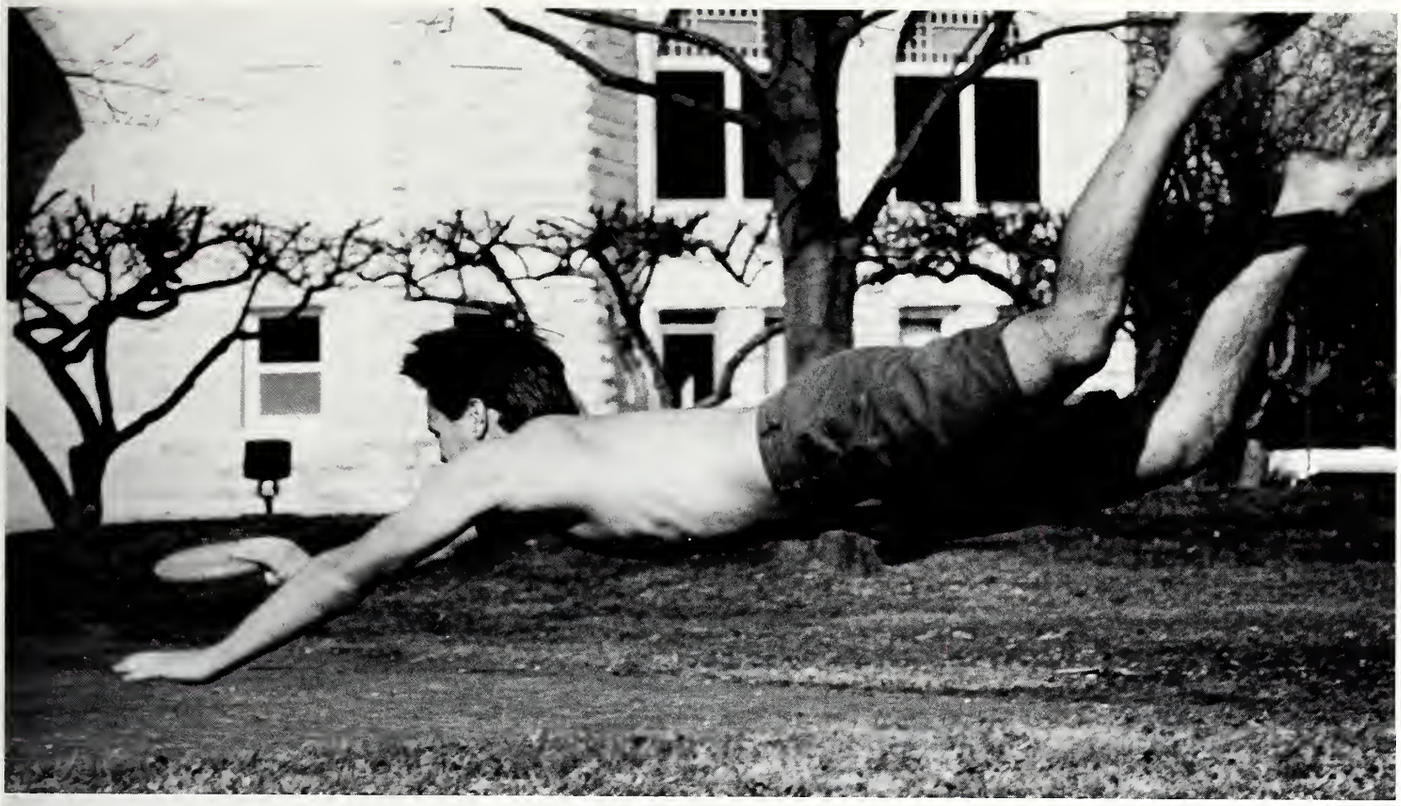
Travis Krehbiel spends workday just playing around in the mud.



Ultimate:

Dave Lusk looks over his shoulder, attempting to figure out where the frisbee will go.

Travis Krehbiel dives for a heroic catch while playing ultimate on the green.



During Spring, the thoughts of many BC students turn not to love, but to the game of Ultimate frisbee. Ultimate fanatics can often be found on the Green on warm sunny days or even on days that aren't so warm and sunny. It's even such a popular game that the players have formed a club, called - yes, you guessed it - the Ultimate Club!

The 1991 Thresher volleyball team finished the season 16-30 overall, and 5-13 in KCAC conference play. They were led by senior captain Amy Lichter along with four players who received post-season honors. Amy Klassen was chosen first team KCAC all-conference, as well as honorable mention all-NAIA district 10. Amy was the team leader in kills per game and service aces per game. She was second in digs per game. Juniors Tori Ensz, Shari Hayes, and Molly Regier all were selected as KCAC all-conference honorable mention players. Other top performers included freshmen DeAnn Dick, Jenny Ediger, and Sheri Guhr and sophomores Laurie Tolle and Carolyn Unruh.

Jolene Flaming, Amy Lichter, Wendy Maneth, Amy Klassen, Marne Ulrich, Carolyn Unruh, Molly Regier, Jenny Ediger, DeAnn Dick, Janet Harty (Assistant Coach), Stacy Koontz (Student Assistant), Jessica Goering, Tori Ensz, Shari Hayes, Laurie Tolle, Cindy Schasteen, Cristina Kaufman, Sheri Guhr, Susan Dicken, Liz Jarnigan (Head Coach).

Football:

Todd Ewy (7) waits for his moment to throw a pass.

Rudy Rolle and Ed Whitfield discuss possible strateges for the upcoming game while Chris Clark looks on in disbelief.

Coaches George Rodgers, Kent Rodgers, and Jeff Jarnagin discuss the progress of the team.

This year's Thresher football team found an example of the mix between academics and athletics in senior Dean Brown, who was named as an All-American Scholar-Athlete. The Threshers defense was the key, lead by Kelly Brack. As a team, the Threshers ended their season with a 4-6 record, 3-6 in the KCAC. A highlight of the season was the winning of the "Menno Bowl," when they defeated Tabor 17-6.

Soccer:

The Thresher soccer team had a tough year ending up with 2 wins, 15 loses, and 2 ties during the season.

The Threshers beat McPherson during Fall Fest with a 6-1 victory.

Two players were recognized at the end of the season for their superb performances. Mark Pierce made first team all-KCAC and second team all-NAIA district 10. Brad Guhr received honorable mention to the all-NAIA district 10 team.

Nate Lyndaker, Brad Guhr, Travis Wallace, Keith Ratzlaff, Troy Fowler, Chris Callstrom, Skip Jantz, Lowell Ebersole, Nate Epp, Kevin Applegate, Mark Pierce, Dave Lusk, Travis Krehbiel, Eric Renteria, Subarna Bhattachan, Alex Queral, Shayne Joseph, and Norman Piper.

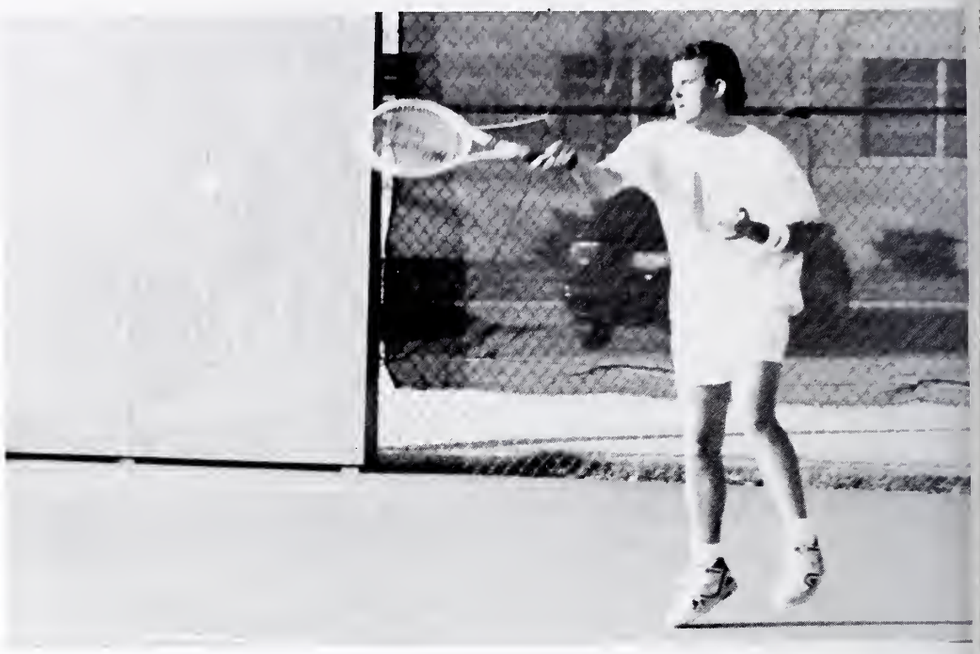
Becky White prepares to smash the ball during practice.

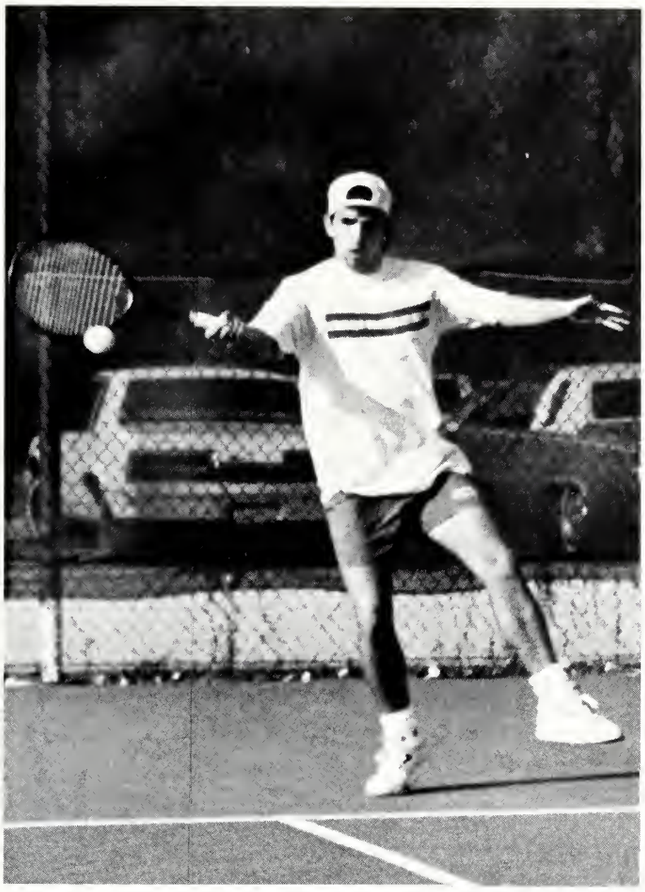
Spectators relax on a sunny afternoon at a women's tennis match.

One particular member of the women's tennis team had a spectacular season this year. Mary Kessinger won the district singles championship, finishing her fourth year of tennis with an undefeated record, and qualifying her for the national tournament. As a team, Bethel successfully ended their season with a third-place showing in District competition.

Men's Tennis:



The Thresher men's tennis team once again lived up to expectations when they took the conference title for the third year in a row, defeating second-place Bethany by only one point. Individual showings in the KCAC were impressive as well, with Doug Klassen and Wayne Hodgson taking first in their singles spots and Scott Dooley, Chad Krehbiel, Chris Mitchell and Chris Lewis all placing second. All three doubles combinations took second place.



Scott Harguth practices his forehand.

Timothy Myron nails one overhead during an afternoon practice.

Lonnie Isaac exhibits some fancy footwork as he reaches for the shot.

Women's Basketball:

This year was a good year for honors for the women's basketball team. Not only did Mary Kessinger and DeAnn Dick win All-KCAC honorable mentions, but Kris Witzke was named to both the All-KCAC and the All-American Scholar-Athlete teams. Witzke was joined by only one other KCAC representative on the All-American team.

The team cheers as Mary Kessinger is announced before the game.

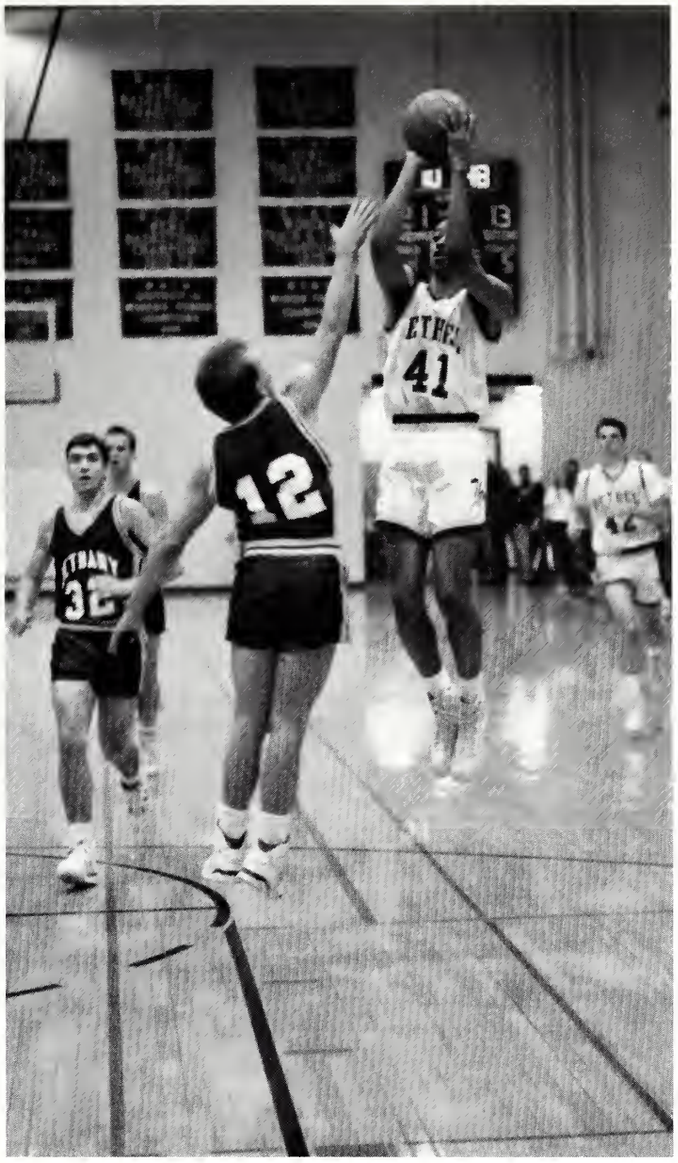
Amy Franz goes up strong to the basket and gets hacked by a Bethany player.

DeAnn Dick pulls up for a twelve foot jump shot while four players try to defend her.

Men's Basketball:

The men's basketball program looked up this year as first-year head coach Denis Schaefer and his young team faced a tough season with 15 away games. They finished the season improving on last year's record, defeating some tough rivals who did not expect a challenge from the Threshers. On an individual basis, Antonio Simpson's hard work on the court earned him an honorable mention on the All-KCAC team. The team was without any seniors. Kyle Penner and Matt Schmidt served the leadership role. The team had young talent which we hope to see grow stronger in the near future.

A J Green, Jason Hill, Jeremey Smith, Kyle Penner, Antonio Simpson, Jon Doell, Matt Schmidt, Eric Nachtigal, Tony Owen, Doug Adams, Donald Chew, Jay Stade, Brian Epperson, Tim Nikkel, Mark Fox, Denis Schaefer, and Brian Roth.



Head Coach Denis Schaefer calls a time out, huddles his team up and delivers a pep talk and adds some strategy to get the Threshers going again.

Antonio Simpson soars over his opponent as he takes a shot.

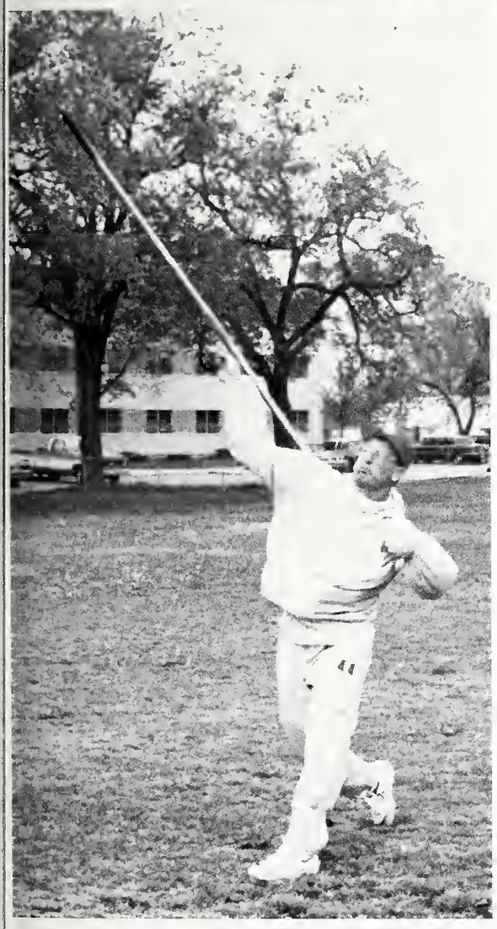
Track and Field:

High hopes for the Bethel track program accompany the completion of a new track northwest of Goering Hall. Coaches and runners alike hope that the new track will boost interest in track, bringing in both more runners and more fans. This year's team placed several members in the KCAC tournament, with freshman Joe Scott placing first in the conference in the 100 meter dash.



Sheri Guhr and Monica Detweiler sweat it out at track practice.

Preparations are made for laying down the base of the new track. The track is scheduled to be ready for meets starting next year.

No, Jon Gering is not trying to hit anyone, he is simply practicing hard on his javelin technique.

B.C. Academics

Excellence 84
Convocation 86
Art Relocation 88
Graduation 90

Academic Excellence:

1992 Thresher Award winners: Tom Graber--Industrial Arts, Sharon Fransen--English, Rachel Dirks--Music, Teresa Scheckel--Social Work, Carmen Pauls--Bible and Religion, Michelle Krehbiel--Home Economics, Daagya Dick--History, Rebecca Weidner--Art, and Kristin Ediger--Art.

Walter Jost conducts the concert choir at Dr. Zehr's inauguration.

Harold Moyer visits with Duane Friesen at a reception held in honor of Moyer. Moyer retired at the end of the year after serving over 30 years as a member of the music faculty.

Robert Regier and his wife Vernette were greeted by friends at a reception in Regier's honor. He is retiring after serving as a member of the art faculty for 30 years.

The retirement of three BC professors dealt a blow to the division of Fine Arts this year. Robert Regier, professor of art, J. Harold Moyer, professor of music, and Walter Jost, professor of music, all chose 1991-92 as their last year as BC profs. Regier plans to continue with studio and museum work, Jost plans to continue as a instumental technicain and do some travelling, and Moyer plans to do some freelance composing.

Convocation:

Convocation is a bi-weekly event, during which all full-time BC students assemble to take naps. NOT! Actually, the students who sleep through convocation are missing out on lectures, panel discussions, and skits dealing with such interesting and relevant topics as sexual harassment, Native American issues, and even personal health care. Anyone who slept this year, for example, may have missed a demonstration involving fruit and prophylactics, put on by the nursing department.

New Bethel College President, John Zehr, address the student body at the opening convocation.

Two former MCCers describe conditions in Eastern Europe to an attentive convo audience.

Lorene Goering, Jim Robb, Wesley Schmidt-Thieszen and Kurt Harder answer questions at the conference on violence and nonviolence.

Kenneth Ives, retired instructor of reasearch methods, speaks at the conference on violence and nonviolence.

Art Relocation:

As the last industrial arts student graduated and IA equipment was auctioned off, art students and faculty anxiously awaited the move that would bring their department together. The closing of the IA department became a new beginning for art as ceramics, printmaking, drawing and painting made their plans for the spaces which wood and metal shops and drafting desks used to occupy. The move to Franz Shop will join ceramics with the rest of the art department under one roof, a big step toward deparmental unity.

The art department as it looked in its last days at the Fine Arts Center.

Gail Lutsch gives directions as people pack up pieces of the art department to take to Franz Shop.

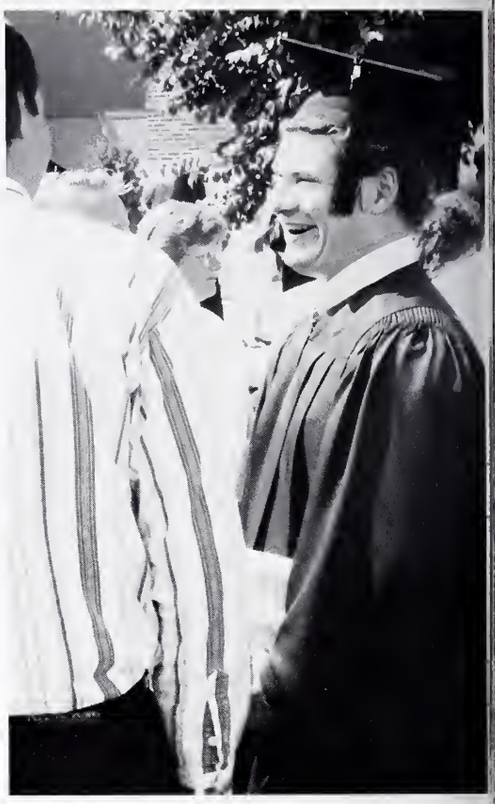
Tom Graber, the last industrial arts graduate, mills in the crowd at the industial arts equipment auction.

Two area men discuss a piece of machinery.

Graduation:

Bethel's 99th annual commencement took place on Sunday, May 24. 122 people representing 19 states and 10 countries walked across the Mem Hall stage. Out of those 122, 44 graduated with some kind of distinction. I wonder how many of those could pronounce their distinction.



The Bethel Sinfonia, directed by Don Kehrberg, performed the processional, Handel's "Largo," and the recessional, "Symphony No. 8"

Walter Jost conducted the BC Concert Choir for the last time before his retirement, as they sang "Songs of Faith," a collection of music composed by Harold Moyer, another retiree.

The commencement address, a short and fairly humorous one, was delivered by Dr.

Bill Froese jokes with Dave Thieszen after the ceremony.

Many conversations went on after the ceremony with graduates talking with their friends, family, and professors.

The Centennial Plaza was crowded with family and friends of graduates.

Janel Cook, Kari Deckert, and Belinda Craig lead a host of graduates outside. Each carried with them a smile and the pleasant thought that they had accomplished their sometimes seemingly impossible goal.

Robert Kreider, BC professor emeritus.

After the degrees were presented, Professor of Music Don Kehrberg was presented with the Julius A. and Agatha Dyck Franz Community Service Award. The award is intended for a faculty member who has made an outstanding contribution to the college community. Wynn Goering, who presented the award, said, "Don Kehrberg has demonstrated his uncanny ability to move beyond the merely possible to the consistently excellent."

FINE ARTS

B.C. Fine Arts

Visual Arts 94
Music 96

Visual Arts:

Kiyoko Ikeya carefully adjusts her print to mat.

Merrill Krabill lectures to his ceramics class on differences in form.

Teresa Pankratz was one of the art alumni who exhibited this year in the Fine Arts Center Gallery.

The big move to Franz Shop was not all that the art department dealt with this year. As usual, the department sponsored several art exhibits held in the Fine Arts Center Gallery throughout the year, including the year-end Student Show and Senior Art Show, featuring original works by students in Bethel art classes.

Other exhibits included the works of Bethel alums, such as Teresa Pankratz, Nathan Esau, Mark Goertzen, and Barbara Fast. Erma Martin Yost, Kathleen Shanahan also displayed their work, just to name a few.

Music:

Bethel students cannot help but be enriched by the possibilities for musical involvement on campus. Bethel has a rich musical tradition, in both choral and instrumental music.

For those interested in mass appeal, the Concert Choir, Chapel Choir, and the Bethel Sinfonia are large groups of musically inclined students. Smaller, special interest groups include Gospel Choir, Jazz Ensemble, Second Century Singers and Camerata Musica, all of which give concerts throughout the year, and travel all over the place to share their talents with others.

This year, the Concert Choir and the Sinfonia went on a nation-wide 1992 Concert Tour. Well, okay, Midwest-wide. They went to

Bethel Sinfonia: Kevin Kilmer, Janet Roesler, Beth Yoder, Mory Ortman, Karin Kaufman, Roz Royster, Michelle DeHoogh, Lisa Pankratz, Steve Unruh, Lisa Goering, Kenna Frey, Greg Seibel, Sheila Peters, Kristin Kliewer, Don Kehrberg, Eric Shenk, Yuonne Popp, Ben Chappell, Mark Frey, Marike Janzen, Melissa Friesen, Olivia Bartel, Lorie Preheim, Keith Neufeld, Carmen Hofer, Angela Lehman, and Rachel Dirks.

Ben Chappell plays the violin for a performance broadcast on KBCU-88.1 FM.

Music:

Henderson, Neb.; Freeman, S.D.; Mountain Lake, Minn. and Topeka. They kicked off the tour with a concert at our own Bethel College Mennonite Church.

The Gospel Choir took a nine-day concert tour along with Camerata Musica, traveling through seven different states.

Probably the most prest gious tour, however, wa taken by music professo Marles Preheim, who trav eled to sing at Carnegie Ha with the Robert Shaw Cho ral Workshop. He also trav eled with the Wichita Cham ber Chorale to Russia to pe form in Moscow and St. Pe tersburg.

Gospel Choir: Roz Royster, Doug Klassen, Tonya Ramer, Arthur Marks, Michelle Roth, Ben Chappell, Byron Rupp, Valerie Schrag, Daagya Dick, Chywanna Iverson, Susan Neufeld, Kate Yoder, Sara Dick, Jessica Goering, Erin Scott, Janna Adrian, Anna Dick, Carrie Hochstetler, and Marian Dansby.

Camerata Musica: Angela Lehman, Ben Chappell, Marike Janzen, Olivia Bartel, Kenna Frey, Sheila Peters, and Carmen Hofer.

Drama:

Bethel students took to the stage for three major performances this year: "Godspell", "Mixed Voices", and "A Shayna Maidel".

The musical "Godspell" was performed for Fall Fest. Director Arlo Kasper adapted the musical, based on the Gospel According to St. Matthew, to give it a 90's feel.

"Mixed Voices," performed by the Bethel College Repertory Performers, consisted of stage adaptations of four contemporary American short stories by Eudora Welty, John Cheever, Isaac Bashevis Singer and Louis Phillips.

The spring performance was the play, "A Shayna Maidel," a drama about a Jewish family's life after the Holocaust.

In addition to the major performances, students directed and produced their own one-acts for fulfillment of a course requirement. "Dirk's Exodus," a Jim Juhnke play that premiered at Bethel in 1990, went on tour this year with its Bethel cast.

Suzanne Mathews, Cristina Kaufman, Alex Queral, Daagya Dick, and Paul Balzer in 'A Shayne Maidel'.

Cafeteria Scenes ... 104
Studying 106
Faces 108

Cafeteria Scenes:

Matt Miller contemplates his dessert choices in the cafeteria.

Antonio Simpson and Elijah Smith have "peace" at their meal table.

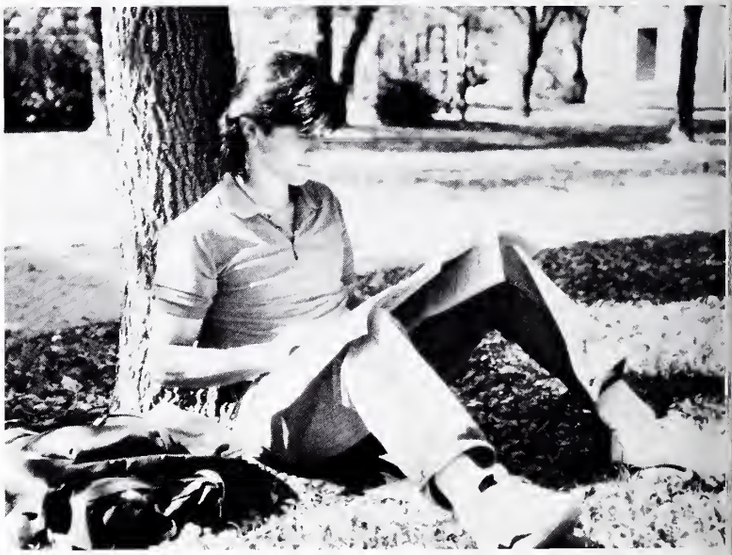
Kate Yoder seems to not be paying much attention to Eric Shenk's story.

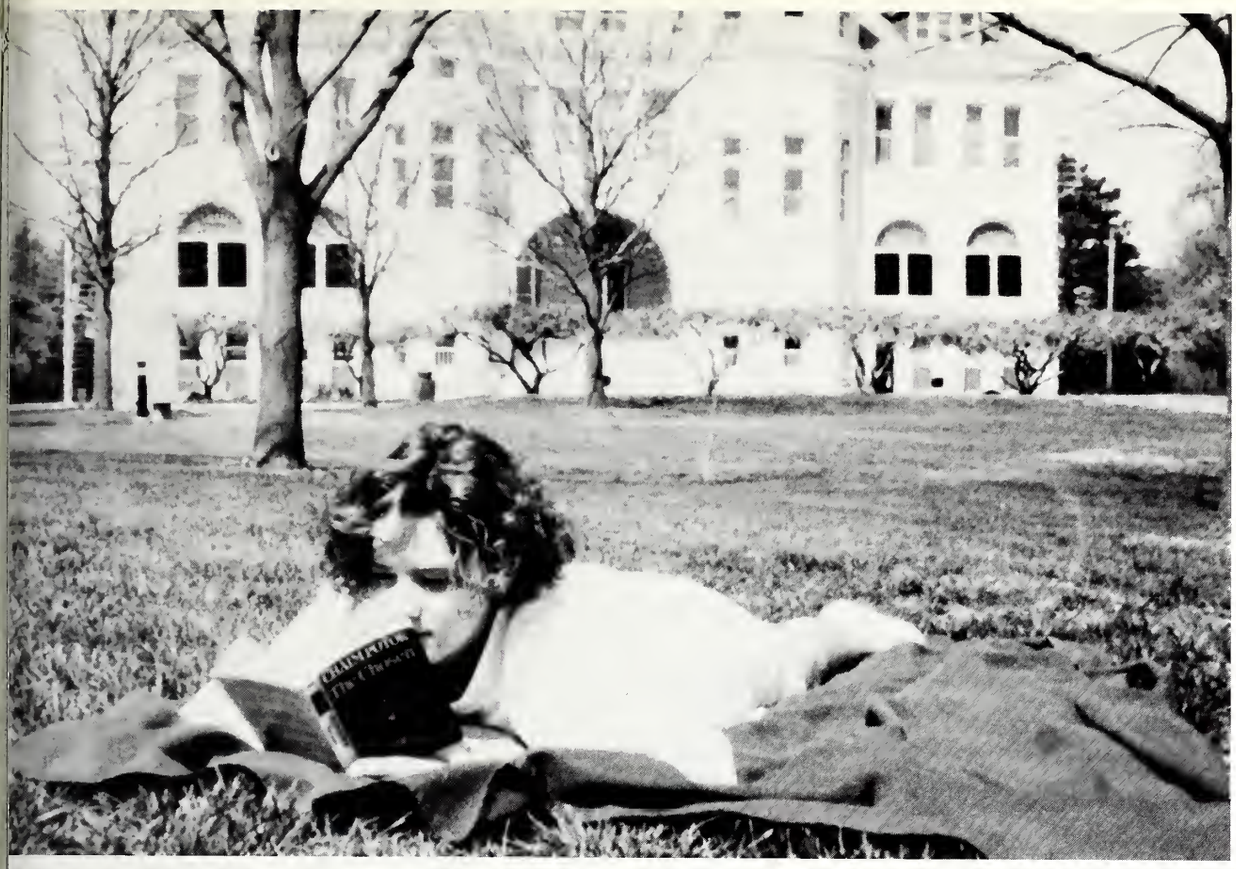
Studying:

Eyassu Abegaz seems to have a kink in his neck from his devoted studying.

John Friesen takes a break from school work to find out what's going on in the real world.

Alex Queral takes advantage of some beautiful weather to read a newspaper.





Suzanne Mathews kills two birds with one stone by reading and catching some sun.

Stefanie Bremiker appears more confused than enlightened by what she reads.

Faces:

Kelson Graber fixes up his computer desk to start off the year.

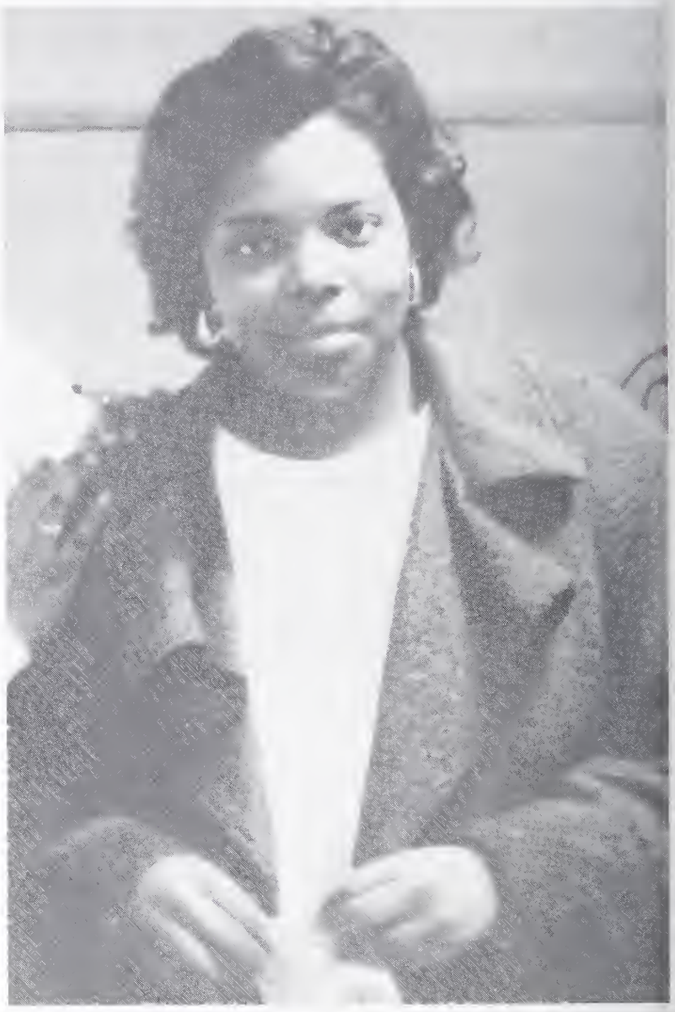
Faithful Thresher soccer fans are undaunted by the cold.

Johann Eberhart is not saddened by a less than tasty Marriott meal--he simply laughs it off.

Ben Chappell performs on the bongos at an outdoor concert.

Mark Frey and Mike Goertzen are surprised by something in the mod courtyard.

Arlyn Entz contemplates the meaning of a piece of art work in the Fine Arts Center Gallery.



Chywanna Iverson takes her hot chocolate seriously.

Jody Lavy, Mike Regier, and Byron Rupp demonstrate how much caffeine it takes to write a paper.

At the RA retreat, Phi Vu, Chris Lorlovick, and Corbin Graber were already in hot water.

Dan Leppert pretends that he knows how to fix his car.

Teresa Scheckel, Joylin Elias, and Laura Cossey discuss life's important matters on a sunny afternoon.

Dave Kliewer seems a little more excited about the prospect of BBQing than most of the rest of us would be.

Threshers

During the 1991-1992 school year, many things happened. We all had both good and bad times, and we shared them together. The 1991-92 school year is gone but the friends and the memories will live forever.
